

5th CARIBAEA INITIATIVE Research & Conservation CONFERENCE

Three inspiring days dedicated to the study and conservation of Caribbean biodiversity

 JUNE 10-12, 2025
 SAINTE-LUCE, MARTINIQUE

As a unique event in the insular Caribbean, this international conference organized by the NGO Caribaea Initiative brings together researchers, experts, and managers to address key topics in the study and conservation of Caribbean biodiversity.

PROGRAM

General Theme: Study & Conservation of Caribbean wildlife and ecosystems

Thematic symposia

- Urban ecology and conservation
- Hunting, wildlife management, and conservation
- Ecology and conservation of aquatic ecosystems and species
- Study and management of exotic mammal predators

Keynote speakers

- Dr. Reia Guppy, Associate Professor, University of Trinidad and Tobago
- Dr. Howard Nelson, Lecturer, University of Cambridge, United Kingdom
- Dr. Guillaume Rieucou, Associate Professor, Louisiana Universities Marine Consortium, USA

Call for abstracts

Present your research to an international audience of researchers and conservation practitioners!

Information & Registration

- Standard: €350
- Students: €220

Secure your spot now!
Early bird rates available until April 15th!

www.caribaea.org/conference2025
conference2025@caribaea.org